mills

Made in Tasmania since 1874.

For 150 years, Waverley Mills has been crafting Australia's finest textiles at our historic weaving mill situated on the idyllic banks of Distillery Creek in Launceston. We are the last mill of our kind in Australia and are proud to weave and finish each textile here onsite. It was in 1874 that Scotsman Peter Bulman founded our mill. Since then, sustainability has been instilled into our identity, from the natural fibres we use to the production practices we employ. Each and every piece we create is uniquely crafted and treasured by its owner. Undeniably luxurious. Designed to last for generations. Sustainably made in Tasmania. It's the Waverley Mills way.

Upcycled: From Landfill to Luxury

We salvaged over 60,000 kg of yarn & made it into something magical.

WASTE NOT, WANT NOT.

When a recent drop in demand for high-fashion clothing left an Italian couture house with an excess supply of high-quality wool, cotton & manmade fibre, Waverley Mills stepped in.

A LABOUR OF LOVE & CREATIVITY

Step 1: Determined composition & colour coded the yarn

Step 2: Designed beautiful new styles by mixing colours & fibres

Step 3: Crafted one-of-a-kind textiles to share with you

Each peice is a unique textile that will never be made again!
