- Chris Kang:
- Community members have concerns with the flooding event and the drainage issue with the Pinkenba area.
- Concerns with aircraft turning early have requested the resident to provide further information time date etc.

Paul Coughlan:

- Committed to getting contemporary models done on the drainage system. Due to the further development.
 - Pinkenba has been identified as location that the consultants will be wanting to engage with.

Neil Hall: (question emailed through from Laurie Buys)

Our area is under the legacy flight path. Our understanding was that the new flight path would be located much further over – giving us relief from the constant flights (and the noise overhead). However, the new flight path is very, very close to us. The situation now is that we have the legacy flight path directly over-head and the new flight path very close. We are getting double noise (from both flight paths). Would you ask Airservices to provide a tracking report on the locations of the flights coming in on the new flight path and their relative position to the legacy flight path – so we can have a visual of what was planned and what is happening. Also, would Airservices explore if the new flight path can be moved over further away from the legacy flight path (as we were led to understand). It isn't reasonable to expect those of us under the legacy flight path to have more noise (double flights) and 24 hours a day – particularly if it is done to give relief to those under the new flight path (as they don't have flights 24/7 like we do).

Donna Marshall:

- Can investigate the above as apart of the operations review which is currently in process.

Stephen Ware:

- General concern with the flooding, community questioning if Brisbane not just the airport has been over developed.
- Questions on when the next community consultations for the PIR would be held.

Donna Marshall:

- Had planned for late February - March, however will place on a hold, and will wait the outcome from TRAX international review. Workshops around May – June.
